The Complete
Solution to the Bugging Threat

The Complete Solution

“Can you be sure your competitors weren't at your last board meeting?”

The decisions you and your colleagues make when discussing mergers and acquisitions, corporate policy, new product design or marketing strategy are at risk from electronic espionage. Imagine the financial and strategic damage that could be sustained by your company should such decisions be leaked prematurely.

Bugging devices are freely available in all shapes and guises from retail outlets and mail-order houses. They are used by professional investigators, competitors, employees, activists, journalists, opportunists or indeed anyone with a reason for obtaining information about you or your company's plans. The deployment of such equipment is straightforward, it takes only seconds to conceal effectively.

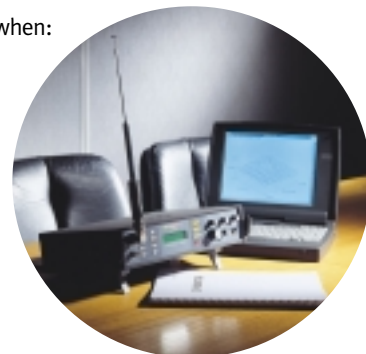

The first step to ensure your meetings remain private is to prepare an effective countermeasures plan to defeat the commercial spy. Audit Com is the first company to demystify electronic countermeasures and give practical advice on how to raise the level of in-house security against the bugging threat.

Our commonsense approach based on many years practical experience provides workable solutions which our customers can evaluate for themselves. Using our specialist knowledge and skills we provide a confidential sweep consultancy service offering advice, training and a wide range of countermeasures support.

Once the need for countermeasures planning is established it is necessary to identify the information that needs to be protected, where and how it is distributed and who is considered likely to steal it.

Our experience has shown a company is most vulnerable to a bugging attack when:

- A key executive leaves
- Business expansion or rationalisation plans are being discussed
- New product, pricing or marketing plans are being developed
- Acquisitions or mergers are planned
- Work is in a sensitive industry
- Senior executives or clients are subject to media attention.

AUDIT COM

THE AUDIT COM PACKAGE

Our technical operations team will advise you on the level of support which will give you a secure and protected environment for your meetings.

We will, as part of an initial free of charge consultation:

- Provide a preliminary risk assessment survey
- Prepare a countermeasures plan appropriate to your organisation
- Establish the level of training required for your staff

Our sweep teams are factory trained and we guarantee a discreet and confidential service. After each visit we provide a fully documented report detailing target analysis, the sweep work done and recommendations on all aspects of information security. Every sweep will normally include the following checks:

- Radio Frequency check: using the latest in RF spectral analysis equipment we are able to make comparisons of radio signal activity in your offices over periods of time.
- NLJD Check: using an advanced microwave technique we are able to locate buried electronics, switched on or off, which may be part of a listening system.
- Telephone & Cable checking: every building has many miles of cabling that can be exploited in a surveillance operation. Using sophisticated cable location and testing equipment we look for breaches and modification of communications and other links.
- Physical Check: a thorough physical check is carried out to detect any signs of intrusion or modification. We also use tamper-proof security seals to reduce time and cost on follow-up visits.

Our sweep service is backed by a comprehensive sales and training programme. We have trained and equipped security teams in over 70 of the UK's top 100 companies. If you don't already have your premises regularly swept then now is the time do something about it. Only Audit Com has the depth of knowledge and technology to make sure it is safe to talk at your next meeting.
